Mrs. Walter Cowles a Bridge Hostess.
The Wednesday Service Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. Walter Cowles this week. The score cards were the hand work of the hostess, daughter, Miss Edith Cowles, and were greatly admired. The gifts for top scorers were awarded to Mrs. John Stuart Johnstone of Ruler and Mrs. Cowles. Mrs. Johnstone received a very unique set of bouillon bowls, while Mrs. Cowles was given a set of ride canteen plates. The club guests present were, besides the hostess and her daughter, Miss Edith Cowles, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Mrs. Walker, Miss Lydia McStocker, Mrs. John Stuart Johnstone, and Miss Julie McStocker.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lansing's Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. Lowden and Miss Helen Lowden of Oakland were the honored guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Lansing on Wednesday evening. The table was made attractive by a low crystal bowl filled with pale pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Lansing's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lowden, Miss Helen Lowden, Mr. and Mrs. Zeno K. Myers, Mr. Nelson Baker Lansing and Mr. Oliver Lansing. Several rubbers of bridge whiled the evening hours away.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Prosser's Dinner Party.
Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Prosser gave an exquisitely appointed dinner on Saturday of last week when they celebrated the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The Prosser house is charmingly arranged for entertainments, the conservatory being most attractive. The table was exceptionally beautiful with its decorations of pale pink roses and delicately tinted lavender orchids. The silver candelabra was shaded in shell pink shades and the effect of pink and lavender was dainty to look upon. The place cards were hand-painted and very pretty. Mr. and Mrs. Prosser's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Anton Cropp, Mr. and Mrs. Armin Haneberg, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder and Mrs. Benjamin Lodge Marx. The hour after dinner was delightfully passed in music and bridge.

The Sewing Club.
Sewing clubs are among the pleasant social diversions and the one recently formed is a delight to its members. At present there are bridge, elocution and these sewing bees are replete with all sorts of fine needle work for the treasure chests of those soon to be matrons. Several of the June brides have been the inspiration for this mode of entertainment and the results are always pleasing. The club that met on Wednesday was made up of some of the most popular maids and matrons in the social whirl of the army and navy set. Miss Ethel Spalding acted as hostess at this meeting. The following members were in attendance: Mrs. James Pine, Mrs. Gerald Johnstone, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. McAfee, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Helen Rockwell, Miss Betty Case and Miss Freeman.

The Morning Music Club.
The following delightful morning in music was given by the Morning Music Club, to its members only. Music-loving Honolulu wishes more of the meetings might be open ones.

The Lowrey Reception.

"The Towers," the lovely home of the P. J. Lowreys, will be the setting for one of the largest receptions given this season. The hostesses on this occasion will be Mrs. Frederick Dought Lowrey and Mrs. Sherwood Moore Lowrey.

Parker-Smart.

The much-talked-of Miss Thelma Parker is going to be married much sooner than was at first anticipated. The wedding will take place the first part of August and the happy young people will live for a year at least at the wonderful ranch owned by this unspoiled heiress. The Kinney house has been taken and will be renovated to suit the bride-elect, who, with her charming mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight, left on yesterday's steamer for this famous and world known ranch. Miss Parker is a remarkable and clever young girl, who, aside from her millions, is just as sweet and unpretentious as the most exacting could wish to know. All of Honolulu is interested in this girl, who is not the least bit blase. She is a clinging bit of girlhood, feels and wishes the near and dear companionship of her mother. Mr. Smart, while not so well known, has made an excellent impression on those meeting him; and the wish of hosts of friends of both young people will follow them to their ranch home. The wedding, no doubt, will surpass, if possible, the magnificent and elaborate celebration in honor of Miss Thelma's coming of age party, which, without a doubt, was one of the grandest ever given in Hawaii.

Mrs. Alexander Robertson's Sewing Tea.

Mrs. Alexander Robertson, who has charge of the ice cream booth for the fair, held a meeting of her assistants to make their hats, which will be of paper, but, well it's a secret, so I can not tell. Refreshments were served at four, after which a delightful hour was spent in listening to an impromptu musical programme. Mrs. Robertson's guests were Miss Stierdt, Miss Nina Craig, Miss Henrietta Smith, Miss Grace Robertson, Miss Gertrude McCarriston, Miss Sybil Robertson, Miss D. McCarriston, Miss Ruth Johnson, Miss Emma Magoon, Miss Edeline Magoon, Miss Sybil Winter and Mrs. Hall.

Students Dance.

The four upper classes of Oahu college had a dancing party last evening which was a most delightful affair. Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths, assisted by several of the faculty, greeted the merry-loving young people and extended a hearty and cordial welcome to all. The student body is always ready for a frolic, and last evening's dance was a real pleasure to them all. The hall was prettily draped in malle, and least they should forget that it was a school dance, the hall was strung with pennants from all schools and colleges, both in the islands and from the States. Among those noticed at the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. Filks, Miss Sheldon, Miss Foster, Mr. Ballie, and several other teachers. Some of the young people present were Miss Ruth Anderson, Miss Ruth Soper, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Martha McChesney, Miss Violet Stoevers, Miss Eloise Wichman, Miss Marguerite Wadman, Miss Helen Spalding, Miss Dorothy Wood, Miss P. Cousins, Miss Marjorie Chapin, Miss Manan Chapin, Mr. Donald Lewis, Mr. Warren Timberlake, Mr. Allen Renon, Mr. Alexander Anderson, Mr. William Schuman, Mr. Vernon Tenney, Mr. Charles Herbert, Mr. Fred Wichman, Mr. Oswald Stevens, Mr. Vincent Genoves, Mr. W. Harris, Mr. Gus Ballentyne, Mr. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Charles Stevens, and others.

Mrs. Mansfield's Reception.

On Thursday of this week Mrs. Mansfield held a delightful reception in honor of Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Mrs. John Whitley and Mrs. James Rogers. About seventy-five friends responded to this gracious hospitality. Leliehua being such a long distance from town, many of the guests went by train, while others motored to this delightful land hospitable post. Mrs. Mansfield has a deal of charm and in dividuality which makes it a pleasure
